MUN Conference in Rome

The MUN conference in Rome hosted 1,000 participants at a 3 day global initiative in February focused on international issues including climate change, terrorism, international economy, and conflict resolution. Seven students from the MUN Club at ACT attended the conference, each individual part of a different committee representing a country of the United Nations.

Stavros Delakis shares his experience from the event: “During the conference I was introduced to technical terminology in the field while broadening my understanding of International Politics. I enjoyed debating and socializing with individuals from different parts of the world, sharing pizza in a piazza with other delegates at the end of the day, and visiting historical landmarks of Rome.”
